

Amir Ehrlich

Landscape photographer

Everyone sees nature, but each one looks at it in a different way.

As a landscape photographer, my main inspiration comes from nature itself. I find myself more and more, seeing landscape in terms of possible frames, always looking for an interesting and unique composition.

Israel based photographer, Amir Ehrlich have been honing his skills in landscape and night photography in the past several years. As someone who grew up in a village and traveled a lot, Amir loves nature and his photography works enable him to represent it in his special way. Using mainly long exposures, Amir is “painting” with his camera sensor to show nature as he imagine it and not as it is seen to the naked eye.

Since 2018 Amir also specializes in interior design and architectural photography which is, to him, a landscape confined between 4 walls. Amir is combining methods of landscape photography in to his interior design works and Vis versa.
